L'IMPERATIF-THE IMPERATIVE MOOD☺

What is the imperative?

Imagine a world where there are no commands or orders being issued. Well yeah, that's right, you can't. Whether you're the one giving the orders or being given the orders, these things are all inexplicably intertwined with human nature and everyday living.

To issue commands or give instructions, we use the imperative form of the verb. We use the imperative day in and day out, and these words are quite often inescapable – from the moment you wake up until the day ends.

"wake up!"--"go to work!"--"hurry up!"--"shut the door!"--"work on this project"--"sit down"--"go to bed now"... and so many things in between.

When to use l'impératif in French

The imperative is a mood that we use to give an order or a suggestion to one or more people.

Examples:

Arrêtez !—stop !

Montez !—climb !

Conduisez-moi à la gare !—drive me to the bus station !

Sometimes we include ourselves in the order and use the imperative in the first person plural form (nous). This is similar to the English let's + infinitive.

Example:

Allons-y !—Let's go!

THINGS TO REMEMBER WHEN USING THE IMPERATIVE MOOD

- There are three forms of the French imperative, and these correspond to tu and vous and nous. The third form 'nous' works the same way we say "let's" in English which means that you gave an order that includes you the speaker.
- Unlike the other verb conjugations, the imperative does not use subject pronouns. It can sometimes use the stress pronouns and object pronouns (we will treat that later).
- To form the imperative, you simply use the present tense conjugation forms for tu, nous, and vous, but these pronouns are not mentioned.

How to form the imperative (present).

To form the present tense of the imperative mood, drop the tu, vous or nous and keep the verb in the present tense:

- prendre: tu prends → prends ! - take!
- faire: vous faites → faites ! - do/make!

- aller: nous allons → allons ! - let's go!
- partir: tu pars → pars ! - leave!

With -er verbs, take the final -s off the tu form of the verb:

- tu regardes → regarde ! - look!
- tu manges → mange ! - eat!

Let's take other verbs and see how they work practically écouter (er verb)

écoute! -- this is for the subject tu but we don't add it and we remove the s that is normally added when conjugating er verbs in the present tense. So here we are just giving an order to one person.

écoutez!---This is for the subject vous when giving an order to more that one person eg is in the case of a teacher to a class. Take note that the vous form is also used to make polite requests.

écoutons !—This is for the subject nous whish implies that the spaeker is part of the command given eg let's listen !

Aller becomes- Va! (1 person) --Allez! (more than 1) --Allons!—(all of us so let's go) NB You may see vas-y!/ allez-y in some books but that is usually how the French will say go! and not just simply Va! One may wonder why I kept the 's' in the 'vas-y' but the 's' is added only when the y follows it.

I can say 'Kofi, va à ta place!'—Kofi go to your seat! But it's rare to see va alone without any words following it and that's why we add the y (vas-y)

With ir verbs and re verbs there are no changes, just conjugate the verb in the present tense using the subject tu, vous and nous but remember not to add the subjects to the conjugation. Examples:

Venir—viens—venez—venons !

Sortir—sors—sortez—sortons !

Prendre—prends—prenons—prenez !

THE ADVERBIAL PRONOUN 'Y'

How to Use the adverb 'Y' in French

What does "il y a" mean in French? It means 'there is' or 'there are'. So the adverbial pronoun y basically means 'there'. It can also mean 'on it', 'about it', 'in it' etc.

1 – The French adverbial pronoun Y Replaces A PLACE.

A place is introduced by a preposition of place which can be "à" but also "sur, sous, en, au, aux…":

1. Je vais à Paris = j'y vais

   I'm going to Paris= I'm going there.

2. Je vais en France = j'y vais
3. Je vais au Japon = j'y vais

2 – The French Pronoun Y Also Replaces A THING

The French Pronoun Y also Replaces a thing (never a person) introduced by “à, au, aux, à l’, à la”

- Je pense à mon travail = j’y pense

  I’m thinking about my work= I’m thinking about it.

- Je réfléchis aux problèmes internationaux – j’y réfléchis

  I’m thinking about international problems= I’m thinking about them.

Note that y must always come directly in from of the verb.
